

THREE UNKNOWN VIRTUAL AND REAL CAUSES OF PSYCHOLOGICAL AND PHYSICAL DISTURBANCES WITH A NEGATIVE IMPACT IN OUR VIES

Text by CG Jung

"A minority that is still too small wonders whether the best way to serve society, women, men and children, would not ultimately be to start each one with himself, to try first and only on his own person, in his own internal economy, the reforms preached at every crossroads. »

The purpose of this article is to inform that there are 3 major causes of unknown interference that disrupt our natural balance of physical, mental and social health. The consequences of these 3 states of interference affect our balance, our harmony, as well as the manifestation of accuracy in your life. This implies a loss of autonomy and responsibility. I have deliberately set aside the other causes of disturbances, chemical, traumatic, infectious, which go without saying in the manifestation of symptoms.

These states of interference create imbalances that have a direct impact on our state of equilibrium in our internal and external environment. This state of imbalance will create an internal and external environment that makes it difficult to maintain a state of correct expression and manifestation of health in our lives. All this will be expressed through a series of psychological, chemical, physical and even social symptoms that will be analyzed and diagnosed. From these diagnoses, external "inhibitor-reducing" or "stimulating" procedures of a chemical, surgical, photonic, mechanical, genetic, psychological and other nature will be proposed to alleviate, relieve or remove symptoms. But what do we do about the cause of all these symptoms? Where is our potential for natural self-regulation? Where is our potential for self-healing? Where is our natural state of balance, harmony and accuracy that allows us more autonomy and responsibility? Outside of us, or, inside us?

There is a precise sequence in the manifestation of these 3 major causes of interference that causes internal and external disorder. "Everything manifests itself from the top downwards, from the inside outwards". So, "any solution to a problem must come from the top, towards the bottom from inside outwards".

What do these two enigmatic sentences mean?

Let's talk about these 3 major causes of interference.

The first interference is of a purely abstract, virtual and symbolic nature.

It is the Law of Genesis, the Law of Project Meaning (+/-), the Law of Intentions (+/-), the Law of Emotions (+/-), the Law of Action-Reaction (+/-). These laws are identical, of the same nature and principle. They impose their dictates and dominations, positioning us as "automatons / slaves" who evolve in a multi-dimensional matrix. This first interference is activated well before conception, is polarized (emotions + or -) at conception, during pregnancy, at first breath, during the first 3 months and first 3 years. Education seals everything for better and worse. And the story repeats itself in a different setting. This first cause of interference has almost total control over the individual. It is located in a reality that is "delocalized", out of time, timeless. It is sometimes referred to as the collective unconscious. It is amoral, it is neither good nor bad. It manifests itself through different paths: parental, transgenerational, ethnic, memories related to the multi-dimensional, history, culture, cults, arts, professions, the SELF, a persona (role-playing), the concept of the shadow (described by C. G. Jung), a model of perfection, the anima or animus, female or male sexualization, a female or male neuro-sociological profile. It uses genetic and biology leveraging to continue to impose itself and make these memory programs grow in a constant round trip on the "past, present, future, present and past" timeline. The psychoanalyst C.G.Jung gave it a name: ARCHETYPES.

Let us ask ourselves the right question: What is the cause and origin of our mental and physical illnesses, our unconscious and conscious conflicts, our family and social unrest, our economic disturbances, our internal and external wars, our nightmares, our dreams, our successes, our failures, our social rank, our beliefs and disbeliefs, our professional involvement, our political involvement, our affiliation with a religion, our tastes for certain foods or music, our attraction to various cultures, our fascination for different models of women or men? It is endless and seemingly potentially impossible to answer any of these questions.

Let us look at the situation from another angle: with a few exceptions, at the time of conception and throughout the entire period of intrauterine growth, the fetus is "programmed" to reach term in "PERFECT HEALTH" and most births occur without harm to the child. It is only in minutes, hours, days, days, weeks, months, years, decades that health problems of all sorts with their symptomatic manifestations will spontaneously or gradually "settle" over the short or long term. All will be examined, evaluated and synthesized to lead to one or more diagnoses that will amount to hypo functioning or hyper functioning of a psyche, an organ, an internal biochemistry, a neuro-musculoskeletal imbalance. Therapeutic protocol: inhibit what is hyper functional or stimulate what is hypofunctional

There is always an immaterial "programmer/archetype" that will be activated by an internal or external "trigger-catalyst" that will ensure that the "programmed-me" will crystallize in its material reality the perfect project-sense of the immaterial "archetypal programmer". In other words: every immaterial or material reality exists because an intentional program has been activated without his knowledge and will have to submit to this loyalty throughout life, unless work is done on the unconscious from the conscious.

Several paths are proposed to meet the archetypes and start a "deep" work. From personal experience, I propose three very effective ones.

Path 1:

The dream path through its symbolism and interpretation. Several - more or less accurate - analysis methodologies are available to the requesting public. The one I propose and use is the analytical approach of C.G. Jung who has demonstrated its effectiveness through a rigorous scientific methodology that respects the individual by including the mystical aspect of dreamlike symbolism experienced by the dreamer using very specific terminology that allows us to effectively evolve and target a patient's conflict content and thus bring him to an "awareness" or "illumination" or "enlightenment" of his unconscious and archetypal problem and thus open the door to a sometimes radical transformation. C.G. Jung has written many books to which you can refer and thus discover all the richness and depth of his teaching.

Path 2:

The T.P.E. (Therapy Expansive Present) path based on a global understanding of quantum physics in relation to the multi-dimensional and simultaneous nature of events + the Law of Genesis or Law of Intentions + the language and mechanics of C.G. Jung's psychoanalysis + a precise sequence of actions applied to the patient. This "mix" of approaches, combined with a specific analysis of a patient's request in relation to a psychological, physical or sociological problem. The therapist then has a "direct access" to an unconscious archetypal symbolic scenario of the individual. This virtual and symbolic "encounter and recognition" of the conflict scenario makes it possible to identify a "specific sequence" that is in resonance with the problem. Once identified, a process of "intentional re-information" is introduced into the vibratory structure, which will activate a readjustment and refocusing of the energy structure. Once the procedure is completed, a specific dialogue is initiated with the patient to trigger an "awareness" or "illumination" or "highlighting" of the dominant cause of the problem encountered and the implementation of a solution. A thermographic evaluation is done before and after the T.P.E. procedure, and it becomes a great and effective way to show the power of intention and the "transformation" impact on the reality of the patient.

Path 3:

The workshop path: The Project E.C.H.O.S. (Simultaneous Hologramic Collateral Existence) is a 10 days specific evolutionary training (1 day per month) for an understanding, exploration and experimentation of the T.E.P. concept without learning the sequence of actions. Each step of the training allows a deeper awareness of reality through a new perception (tool). The Project ECHOS highlights the colossal manipulative power of ARCHETYPES and their influences in our daily lives as well as the direct impact they have on the onset of many psychological, physical, social, historical and other problems. The Project ECHOS offers the possibility to "DIFFERENTIATE" from these archetypes. And finally give yourself the opportunity to write your own history.

The second interference is of a real and biomechanical nature.

It is the ATLANTO-AXIAL SUBLUXATION or subluxation of the first cervical called Atlas and or the second cervical called Axis. Without going into the dialectics of all the details of location, anatomical shape, the why of the large mechanical mobility, the feminine and masculine symbolism of these two vertebrae and the direct relationship they have with the brain stem. Atlantic-axial interference or subluxation has a direct influence on the quantity of vital energy versus the quality of life that circulates via the nerves between the brain (central computer), the first cervical (atlas), the second cervical (axis) then towards the rest of the body via the spinal cord which is protected by a series of cervical, dorsal, lumbar and sacral vertebrae, all having anatomical variables and reduced mobility compared to the two first cervicals (atlas-axis) which have great mobility.

The decrease in the "quantity of vital energy" affecting the "quality of expression" of part or all the body activates two adaptation mechanisms: either hypofunction or hyperfunction of the parts of the body or organs directly or indirectly affected by atlanto-axial subluxation. Health problems will settle spontaneously or gradually over the short or long term, will be examined, evaluated, synthesized to lead to a finding: it has a dominant atlanto-axial interference/subluxation (one of the 256 possible combinations identified between the occiput and C1-C2-C3). There is then dysfunction and major disruption in the body's natural balance; a hypofunction or hyperfunction of the psyche, an organ, an internal biochemistry, a neuro-musculoskeletal function.

Therapeutic protocol of a session: Thermographic evaluation before restoring normal mobility in the upper cervical area thanks to a specific atlanto-axial adjustment. The amount of vital energy tends to gradually return to its normal level (100%). Important: a 45 to 60 minutes rest period in the clinic is necessary to stabilize the adjustment. A second thermographic evaluation takes place to confirm the change.

This upper cervical therapy approach I use is based on 30 years of clinical research conducted by Dr. B.J. Palmer D.C. and his team. Many books and research compilations are available.

It should be noted that there are variables in upper cervical subluxation adjustment procedures.

The third interference is of "real/virtual" nature. It is linked to the neuro-spatial system.

Neuro-spatial is the edifice's cornerstone to our reality, how we evolve. Our brain is a "quantum biological computer" that uses on average 10% of its full operating potential. Many "neural files" are in standby, waiting to be opened to allow an exponential increase in brain capacities; this, in order to evolve in our 3-dimensional reality and most probably in other dimensions. My approach has spanned 30 years of clinical observations and experiments on the mechanics of the neuro-sociological functioning of women and men and has enabled me to understand the behavioral differences between right-handed, right-handed, left-handed and left-handed people.

Discovery 1:

The tracking and identification of four different neuro-sociological models for female right-handed, male right-handed, female left-handed and male left-handed people. A mathematical modeling of all these neuro-sociological models, called the F.P.S.A. (S.A.P.F.) (Seduction and Action Power Factor) was created to better understand and identify the neuro-sociological profile of the 16 basics references models and the corresponding sub-tones.

Discovery 2:

Understanding the operating/functioning mechanics of the F.P.S.A.. has allowed me to elucidate the reasons for the different pathologies, some of which are gendered (either female or male), others not.

The first is a pathology called "basic tension" which is only an increase in the F.P.S.A. of the basic neuro-sociological profile. It is easily manageable.

The second is a pathology known as "inversion overstress" which is activated following an amplification and/or switching mechanism on the opposite cerebral sphere. It is then the sub-tone that appears. The F.P.S.A. of the sub-tone will activate pathologies that will be much more serious and intense, more difficult to manage.

The third is a "distress" pathology; it is an amplification of the "inversion over-stress" phase. The F.P.S.A. of the amplified sub-tone is then different and leads to the expression of pathologies that are difficult to manage or even unmanageable.

Discovery 3:

The right-handed Female/Male person uses one hemisphere at a time. Depending on her/his basic neuro-sociological profile, she/he will function either on the hemisphere with a female principle or on the hemisphere with a male principle. When she/he switches to the opposite hemisphere, a "Flip-Flop" or "brain shift" occurs which will activate a state of neurological imbalance of variable duration. As a result, the right-handed Female/male person has a limited capacity for adaptation.

The left-handed Female/Male person will constantly function on both hemispheres at the same time. This means that both the left-handed Female and Male have a much greater ability to adapt.

Discovery 4:

When a child is conceived, there is a conjunction of an archetypal will linked to the Law of Genesis and a specific combination of the parent's two F.P.S.A.

There are 256 possible combinations.

N.B. A first book has been written on this subject. A second book that is under printing will develop the subject of this discovery in relation to left-handed people. A third book on right-handed people is the process of being completed and published.

Discovery 5:

Since C. G. Jung, it has been established: that each woman has - to a greater or lesser extent - a hidden male nature named ANIMUS and that each man has - to a greater or lesser extent - a "hidden" female nature named ANIMA.

I have implemented the revolutionary new concept of the "DOUBLE ANIMA" for left-handed males and the "DOUBLE ANIMUS" for left-handed females. Recognizing of course the terms ANIMUS and ANIMA but only concerning the right-handed females and right-handed males.

The great difference between the right-handed and the left-handed females is that at conception, the left-handed woman was "imposed an archetypal" dictatorship: you will be a man. So, there is "DOUBLE ANIMUS" in this woman.

The great difference between the right-handed and left-handed males is that at conception, the left-handed man was "imposed an archetypal" dictatorship: you will be a woman. So, there is "DOUBLE ANIMA" in this man.

Discovery 6:

Neuro-spatial: our position in a space (a volume, a room), the way we evolve in it, how we feel.

When we are in the "right place" in a space, when we are placed in a room, for example, meeting our neuro-sociological profile, our brain functions better.

On the other hand, if we are not in the "right place" in a space, not meeting our neuro-sociological profile, our brain cannot use its full potential.

E.g.: If I find myself in a rectangular (classroom), square, oval or hemicycle space and look for a seat from my basic and sub-tonal neuro-sociological profile, I will automatically know where I have to sit: either in the front left space, or in the front right space, or in the rear left space, or in the rear right space or in the center. There are a multitude of possibilities, but ONLY ONE place is associated with you in a neuro-spatial sense. This allows you to be 100% present in listening, receiving and relating to others. You are 100% in the manifestation of your homeostasis or internal balance. Your entire BEING is PRESENT.

How many of you have found yourselves in a room and after a few moments weren't feel comfortable?

How many of you have been forced to sit in a certain seat in a classroom because of stupid school regulations, therefore having integration and learning difficulties?

How many of you have found themselves sleeping in a chair after 10 minutes of reading a newspaper or a book?

How many of you have found yourselves positioned in a row on the left or right because of certain covenants or rules, feeling confused and knowing that you would be better off in the opposite row?

How many of you have found yourselves in a hotel room where the bed was positioned more or less on the left, or the right or centered, where it was impossible for you to get a deep and refreshing sleep?

How many of you have found yourselves in a hospital bed feeling that your recovery was unusually long and difficult?

How many of you have found yourselves sitting in a train, plane in a seat that doesn't suit you, therefore at the end of the trip you are totally wacked, and without even mentioning impatience in your legs and irritability?

WHY?

Many experiences have been replicated in different contexts.

NEURO-SPATIAL REPOSITIONING based on one's neuro-sociological profile deserves our full attention given the positive changes and performances it generates and implements.

Four approaches are proposed to know one's basic neuro-sociological profile and sub-tonality:

- Private coaching:

This consists of a personal meeting. With the neuro-sociological profile established, an explanation of who you are follows. You have the keys to optimize your performance's potential.

- Neuro-Spatial repositioning coaching:

NEURO-SPATIAL REPOSITIONING based on one's neuro-sociological profile deserves our full attention given the positive changes and performances it generates and implements.

- Couple coaching:

and weaknesses of the couple's dynamics. New keys to resolving conflicts, by finding the right place for each one in the couple.

- 3 days workshop:

Phase 1 and Phase 2:

Phase 1: Throughout the 1st day allows the participants to identify the basic profile and sub-tone and the mechanic of shifting on the right or left brain. Once this step has been completed, the second phase of integration is propose.

Phase 2: Throughout the 2 days there will be a theoretical phase and a practical exploration phase of the movements in space with an explanation of the observations experienced by the participants and sharing of their different feelings and awareness.

At the end of the Phases 1 and 2, you will totally understand how you need to work based on your Basic and Sub-tone profiles and start a new dynamic relationship with the others.
