

Couples on "surge" and their Neurosociological Profiles.

The concept of the Neuro-sociological Profiles of the different models of right-handed, left-handed, right-handed and left-handed women has made it possible to highlight, on the basis of the F.P.S.A. (the actor of Seduction and Action) the dynamics of more or less efficient functioning based on a base of N.S. Profile with a Female Principle and a base of N.S. Profile with a Male Principle.

A Native American saying says that: The white way is the way of celibacy and the easiest, and, the red way is marriage and the most difficult. We will discover that this ancestral wisdom has these reasons that the heart ignores.

For many individuals, the reality of singlehood is an imposed option and for others voluntary. The F.P.S.A. of the single person is easy to consider and respect for personal well-being.

For others, the reality of the married couple or the unmarried couple is an imposed, suggested, recommended or voluntary option. The couple's F.P.S.A. is more complex to consider, understand, integrate and respect. There are 3 entities that are in place: there are 2 individuals of different or identical sex, and the 3rd entity which is the concept of the couple. Already it's starting to get complicated because a ménage à trois is not easy to manage.

In the reality of the couple, the notion of the real couple and the virtual couple and the inverted couple will take a dominant place in the evolution of the F.P.S.A. for the survival of the couple. You will discover the complexity of a couple's F.P.S.A. and understand the notion of the couple on "BORROWED TIME".

Humor will have its rightful place in the description of the different models of couples, otherwise it's not funny the red voice...

There is the basic heterosexual couple: the woman with the Feminine Principle and the man with the Masculine Principle. When menopause and andro-pause set in, then it's a disaster. Everything is gradually "reversed" and the renewals of vows have been forgotten...!

There is the reverse heterosexual couple: the man with the Feminine Principle and the woman with the Masculine Principle. The andro-pause is not going to change anything, the menopause is not going to change anything: evolving status quo and it's just a little more tense at home.

There is the virtual heterosexual-homosexual couple at Principe Féminin for women and men. Couple whose verbomotor aspect is dominant in + or -, cocoon-down and cool couple. The menopause will activate the reverse heterosexual couple and cause a clash and divorce in the end....

There is the virtual heterosexual-homosexual couple at Principe Masculin for women and men. A couple whose action, tracking, cycling, performance and confrontation are their daily lives. It's moving, it's tonic. The andro-pause slowly sets in, the guy will start sticking out his tongue and the wounds will pile up. The reverse straight couple is active and the woman wonders and worries about her boyfriend...?

There is the real lesbian couple. They are two women with a Feminine Principle. When the menopause sets in, the shift in the universe with the Masculine Principle will vary according to the basic Profile of each of them and the difference between the variables of the right-handed and those of the left-handed. We will end up with the potential of virtual lesbian-heterosexual couples and lesbian couples with a Masculine Principle. The couple takes it for granted and is "in the face".

There is the real lesbian couple at Principe Masculin. Menopapause: does not know. Life goes on at full speed, the rest is ancient history.

There is the real homosexual couple. They are two men with a Feminine Principle. When the andro-pause sets in, the lethargic slide amplifies and the couple slowly withers. Nothing has changed but only psychological suffering.

There is the real-life homosexual-virtual heterosexual couple. One partner is on a Female Principle basis and the other is on a Male Principle basis. It's a complicated dynamic with a lot of tension-reactions. It's a bit rock and roll. When the andro-pause shows the tip of its nose, it's the real homosexual couple that takes its place again. It's not easy to adapt and share.

There is the real homosexual couple where the partners are on a Masculine Principle basis. It's a bit hard and very difficult to manage. If the "couple" persists and comes to experience the andro-pause together, I admit that it is very difficult to evaluate and consider. The couple will experience the virtual homosexual-heterosexual dynamic and at the end of the course the real homosexual couple at Principe Féminin....

As you have seen, I have not included the notion of the variables of right-handed, left-handed, right-handed and left-handed. This would require pages and pages of analysis and explanations, which could create confusion. A training exists for this dynamic complex of the couple. A book has been written that develops the subject in depth.

White way... Red way.... Both paths are initiatory journeys that must be lived in recognition of cause and effect. Respect for the other in his or her difference is the basis of the success of the couple. It is essential to put a lot of love with a large dose of communication, a teaspoon of humor and a pinch of wisdom in the face of the "mutation" of the other and the couple. It is inevitable and frustrating, but it can be experienced by remaining as much as possible in the position of Observer and Conscious Actor.
